Turin, March 30.

MR. Oglethorp, who was at this Court three Years ago, and has ſince been at Naples, Malta, and Rome, arrived here the 25th Inſtant. Notice being given to the Governour he immediately informed the King of it, who ordered him to warn that Perſon not to appear at Court, but forthwith to depart the Country; and accordingly he went away the next Day. This Proceeding is imputed wholly to the Regard his Sardinian Majeſty has for the King of Great Britain, the ſaid Perſon being known to be one of the Pretender's Adherents.

Stockholm, March 26, O. S. The States of this Kingdom came on the 22d Inſtant to an unanimous Reſolution to confer the Regal Dignity on the Hereditary Prince of Heſſe, which Reſolution was accordingly the ſame Afternoon notified to the Queen and Prince by a ſelect Committee of each Order of the States, when his Royal Highneſs alſo ſigned an Inſtrument containing an Aſſurance of his inviolably obſerving the Conditions whereon the Crown was offered him; and on the 24th the States choſe another Committee, conſiſting of four Counts, four Barons, and 16 of the inferior Nobility, and of the Clergy, Burgeſſes and Peaſants eight of each Order, to preſent their Act of Election to the Prince, at which Ceremony his Royal Highneſs ſent that Morning to deſire all the foreign Miniſters to be preſent; and about One a-Clock in the Afternoon the ſaid Committee with Count Horn Land-Marſhal or Speaker of the Houſe of the Nobles, at the Head of them, repaired to the Palace, where they were introduced to the Prince in a large Hall by Baron Duben Marſhal of the Court, when Count Horn made a ſhort Speech to his Royal Highneſs, acquainting him that the Committee which waited on him on the 22d Inſtant, having communicated to the States the Inſtrument of Aſſurance which he had then been pleaſed to ſign, the States had directed him with the Committee that accompanied him to wait on his Royal Highneſs, and to acquaint him in the Name of the whole Body of the States, that they had unanimouſly elected him to be their King, and had commanded him then to declare him Frederick Hereditary Prince of Heſſe, &c. to be King of the Swedes, Goths and Vandals, and all the Territories to them belonging, and prayed, that his Majeſty, as he then called him, would be pleaſed to permit that their Act of Election might be read to him, which was accordingly done by the Secretary of the Houſe of the Nobles, and afterwards Count Horn preſented the Scepter to his Majeſty, which a Herald held by him for that Purpoſe; which the King forthwith reſtor'd, and made thereupon a ſhort Speech to the Committee, wherein he told them, that he could not with Gratitude enough acknowledge the extraordinary Mark of Affection which the Queen had ſhewn him on this Occaſion, and that he thankfully accepted the Offer the States made him, and would make it the whole Study of his Life to ſhew them how much he thought himſelf oblig'd to them for advancing him to the Throne, and that during the whole Courſe of his Reign he would be ſolely guided by the Advice of the Council of the Kingdom, and would on all Occaſions promote the Welfare and Glory of the Nation, and endeavour to live with them, not only as their King, but as their Friend and Brother; whereupon all the Members of the Committee kiſs'd the King's Hand, as did afterwards the Senators and a great many of the Principal Nobility; and then his Majeſty was complimented by his Excellency the BritiſhAmbaſſadour,and all the other foreign Miniſters,wherewith the wholeCeremony ended at the Palace, and the Heralds proceeded to proclaim the King with the uſual Solemnities in all the publick Places of this City. His Majeſty reſolved the ſame Day to diſpatch a Gentleman to the ſeveral Courts of Great Britain, Vienna, France, and Heſſe Caſſel, to notify his Acceſſion to the Crown; and Young Count Teſſin Son of the Grand Marſhal is already ſet out with that Commiſſion for London, as Count Spenſe is alſo for Vienna, Baron Sach Son-in-law to Count Sparre for Paris, and Baron Duben for Heſſe Caſſel.

Berlin, April 13. On the 11th Inſtant the Earl of Cadogan had his Audience of Leave at this Court. The King of Pruſſia returned the ſame Evening to Potſdam, and his Lordſhip ſet out Yeſterday Morning for Vienna, where he propoſes to arrive the 22d Inſtant. Major General Schwerin, who was formerly in the Service of the Duke of Mecklenbourg, is named by the King of Pruſſia to be his Envoy extraordinary at the Court of Poland, in the Room of M. Pozadoffski, who has been lately recalled from thence.
